

Recently, we signed a strategic partnership with CADWARE Engineering with the primary focus of offering expert level training and mentoring in all product software and process workflow to their current and potential clients by utilizing Advanced AEC Solutions' BIM implementation and training services.

We are very happy to be present in this part of Europe, where we see a great potential for BIM development in the architectural and building industry. Our expertise for over 10 years in Building Information Modeling and Management gives us the ability to support large and complex projects providing BIM management & training through project and construction management services. We are pleasantly surprised to discover many subsidiaries of important companies around the world who require our services, and we are here to help.

We are very confident in our success together with CADWARE Engineering for upcoming years.

Mr. Scott Ebert, President & CTO
Advanced AEC Solutions